* Tartar, i. e. men from Tartarus, hell, or infernal region, is a corruption of Tatar. The priests and monks of the 13th, and 14th centuries added an R to the word Tatar, in order to explain the ferocity of the hordes that issued from Central Asia. This mode of spelling was in use for several centuries, until the Tatars were driven back to their inhospitable regions and all fear of them had vanished. To write at present Tartar displays either ignorance or great lack of deference to the feelings of the people now coming in contact with us.

I.—TRIMETRICAL CLASSIC, 三字經

Translated into English by E. C. Bridgman, D. D. Notes (1), (2), and (3) refer to modern additions to the original Classic obtainable at Foochow. Notes (1), and (2), are from what is called the New Trimetrical Classic, and Note (3), from the, 三字經註解輯要, which contains an extensive Commentary on the Text. It was printed in 1871. These notes have been translated by C. F. R. Allen, Esq.

人之初性本善 Men, at their birth, are by nature radically good;

性相近習相遠 In this, all approximate, but in practice widely diverge.

苟不教性乃遷 If not educated, the natural character is changed;

教之道貴以專 A course of education, is made valuable by close attention.

昔孟母擇鄰處 Of old, Māng's mother selected a residence.

子不學斷機杼 And when her son did not learn, cut out the [half-weave] web.

竇燕山有義方 Tow of Yenshan having adopted good regulations,

教五子名俱揚 Educated five sons, who all became renowned.

養不教父之過 To bring up and not educate, is a father's error;

教不嚴師之惰 To educate without rigor, shows a teacher's indolence.

子不學非所宜 That boys should not learn, is an improper thing;

幼不學老何爲 For if they do not learn in youth, what will they do when old?

玉不琢不成器 Gems unwrought, can form nothing useful;

人不學不知義 So men untaught, can never know the proprieties.

爲人子方少時 Let the sons of men,
while yet in early life,

親師友習禮義 With teacher and friends learn proper and decorous conduct.

香九齡能溫席 Heāng in his ninth year, could warm his [parents'] bed;

孝於親所當執 Duty to parents, ought carefully to be maintained.

融四歲能讓梨 Yung in his fourth year, could give up his pear;

弟於長宜先知 Duty to elders, ought early to be understood.

首孝弟次見聞 First, practice filial and fraternal duties; next, see and hear;

知某數識某文 Understand certain numerical classifications, and certain branches of science.

始春秋終戰國 From the period of the Spring and Autumn Annals to that of the contending states, 五霸強七雄出 There were five powerful princes, and seven mighty warriors.

嬴秦氏始兼并 When victory declared on the side of Tsin, all began to unite;

傳二世楚漢爭 But after two reigns, Tsoo and Han again strove [for supremacy];

高祖興漢業建 Kaoutsoo was victorious, and established the line of Han,

至孝平王莽篡 Which continued to Heaouping, when Wangmang usurped the throne,

光武興爲東漢 Kwangwoo then rose, and founded the eastern dynasty,

四百年終於獻 Which, after four hundred years, ended with the emperor Heen.

魏蜀吳爭漢鼎 Wei, Shuh, and Woo, then strove for the imperial crown;

號三國迄兩晉 These 'Three States' were succeeded by the two Tsin.

宋齊繼梁陳承 Sung and Tse came next, followed by Leäng and Chin;

爲南朝都金陵 These four southern dynasties held their court at Kinling [Nanking].

北元魏分東西 In the North were the Yuen of Wei, who separated eastward and westward,

宇文周與高齊 Together with Yuwān of Chōw, and Kaou of Tse:

迨至隋一土宇 These continued till Suy joined the land in one.

不再傳失統緒 In the second generation, however, the new line failed,

唐高祖起義師 And Kaoutsoo, founder of Tang, raised up forces in defence of right, 除隋亂創國基 Suppressed the disorders of Suy, and founded a new dynasty.

二十傳三百載 After twenty reigns, during three hundred years,

梁滅之國乃改 Leāng destroyed the race of Tang, and changed the dynasty,

梁唐晉及漢周 The [latter] Leāng, Tang, Tsin with Han and Chōw, 稱五代皆有由 Called the five dynasties, followed in regular succession.

炎宋興受周禪 The illustrious Sung next arose and occupied Chōw's vacant throne;

十八傳南北混 But after eighteen reigns, the north and south fell into disorder.
(2) (3)

T'ai-tsu of the Ching dynasty received a glorious destiny. 清太祖肇景命。

Peace was established in every direction, so that prosperity prevailed. 靖四方克大定。

如囊螢如映雪 One read by light of glow-worms, another by reflection of snow.

家雖貧學不輟 These, though their families were poor, did not omit to study.

如負薪如掛角 One carrying faggots, and another with his book tied to a cow's horn,

身雖勞猶苦卓 And while thus engaged in labor, studied with intensity.

蘇老泉二十七 Soo Laoutsenen, when he was twenty-seven years of age,

始發憤讀書籍 Commenced assiduous study, and applied his mind to books.

彼既老猶悔遲 This man when old, grieved that he commenced so late;

爾小生宜早思 You, who are young,
ought early to think of these things.

若梁灝八十二 Behold Leäng Haon, at the advanced age of eighty two,

對大廷魁多士 In the imperial hall
among many scholars, gains the first rank;

彼既成衆稱異 This he accomplished,
and was by all regarded as a prodigy:

爾小生宜立志 You, youthful readers, should now resolve to be diligent.

謝道韞能詠吟 Seay Taoüwan likewise could sing and chant:

彼女子且聰敏 These two, though girls, were intelligent and well informed;

爾男子當自警 You, then, my lads, should surely rouse to diligence.

唐劉晏方七歲 Low Ngan of Tang,
when only seven years old,

舉神童作正字 Showing himself a noble lad, was employed to correct writing:

彼雖幼身已仕 He though very young was thus highly promoted;

爾幼學勉而致 You, young learners, should strive to follow his example;

有爲者亦若是 And he who does so,
will acquire similar honors.

犬守夜雞司晨 Dogs watch by night;
the cock announces the morning.

苟不學曷爲人 If any refuse to learn, how can they be esteemed men?

蠶吐絲蜂釀蜜 The silk worm spins silk: the bee gathers honey;

人不學不如物 If men neglect to learn,
they are inferior to the brutes.

ancestors, and enriches his posterity.

人遺子金滿籬 Some for their offspring, leave coffers filled with gold;

我教子惟一經 While I to teach children, leave but one little book.

勤有功戲無益 Diligence has merit;
play yields no profit;

戒之哉宜勉力 Be ever on your guard!
Rouse all your energies!

II.—A SCRIPTURE TO AWAKEN THE WORLD.

Translated by Rev. Robert Morrison, D. D.

- 闢聖帝君覺世真經 A True Scripture to awaken the world, by the Holy Imperial Prince Kwan-foo-tze.
- 敬天地禮神明，奉祖先孝雙親 I. Venerate heaven and earth; perform the rites to the gods. Worship your ancestors; be dutiful to your parents.
- 守王法重師尊，愛兄弟信友朋 II. Keep the King's laws, revere your teachers and superiors. Love your brothers, and be true to your friends.
- 睦宗族和鄉隣，別夫婦教子孫 III. Live in harmony with your kindred, agree with village neighbours. Let husband and wife mind their separate duties and teach their children and grandchildren.
- 時行方便廣積陰功，救難濟急恤孤憐貧 IV. Always practice what is expedient for others; accumulate many secret deeds of charity. Rescue those in trouble; assist those who are hard pressed; pity the fatherless and compassionate the poor.
- 創修廟宇印造經文，捨藥施茶戒殺放生 V. Found and repair temples; print and make moral and religious books. Supply medicine, give tea, avoid killing animals, and liberate them to live.
- 造橋修路矜寡救困，重粟惜福排難解紛 VI. Make bridges, repair roads; pity the widow, rescue the oppressed. Value grain; use plenty sparingly; remove people's difficulties; settle their strifes.
- 捐貲成美垂訓教人，冤讐解釋斗秤公平 VII. Contribute your property to effect good designs; give instruction and teach men. Make peace between enemies; have just measures and balances.
- 親近有德遠避兇人，隱惡揚善利物救民 VIII. Approach near to the virtuous; keep far off from bad men. Conceal men's vices, and publish their virtues; do what is advantageous to creatures, and save the common people.
- 回心向道改過自新，滿腔仁慈惡念不存 IX. Turn the mind to right principles; reform errors and renovate yourself. Be filled with benevolence and kindness; retain no vicious thoughts.
- 一切善事信心奉行，人雖不見神已早聞 X. Let every virtuous deed be heartily believed, and reverently practiced. Although man sees it not, the gods have already heard it.
- 加福增壽添子得孫，災消病滅禍患不侵，人物咸寧吉星照臨 XI. Happiness will be increased, long life added, sons born and grandsons obtained. Judgments will be dissipated; sickness diminished; calamities will not assail. Men and animals will all enjoy repose; and felicitous stars shed their auspicious influences.
- 若存惡心不行善事，淫人妻女破人婚姻 XII. If a man cherish a wicked heart, and do not practice virtue; debauch men's wives and daughters, and mar people's marriages;
- 壞人名節妬人技能，謀人財產唆人訟爭 XIII. Ruin men's reputation; envy people's talents; plot against people's property, and stir up strifes;
- 損人利己肥家潤身，恨天怨地罵雨呵晴 XIV. Injure others to benefit himself; fatten his house and enrich his person; hate heaven and repine at earth; rail at rain and curse the sunshine;
- 謗聖毀賢滅像欺神，宰殺牛犬穢棄字紙 XV. Slander sages, and vilify worthies; destroy idols and insult the gods; slay and kill cows and dogs; defile and cast away lettered paper;
- 恃勢辱善倚富壓貧，離人骨肉間人弟兄 XVI. Presume on power and insult the virtuous; rely on riches to oppress the poor; separate men's bones and flesh [kindred] and set at variance brothers;
- 不信正道竊盜邪淫，好尚奢詐不重儉勤 XVII. Disbelieve right principles; fornicate, rob, be depraved, and lewd; ambitious, extravagant and deceitful; and despise economy and diligence;
- 輕棄五穀不報有恩，瞞心昧己大斗小稱

XVIII. Wasteful of grain; ungrateful for favors; deceiving himself; having large measures, and little scales [unequal weights and measures];

假立邪教引誘愚人,託說昇天歛物行淫

XIX. Establish false and heterodox sects; draw away and deceive the simple; make pretences and talk of ascending to heaven; and collect property to spend it on dissipation;

明瞞暗騙花言巧語,白日作詛背地謀殺

XX. In the light impose on men, and in the dark cheat; use flowery talk and specious lips; in the open day utter curses, and behind backs, plot assault;

不存天理不順人心,引人作惡不信報應

XXI. Not preserve heavenly principles, not obey the human heart; lead men to commit wickedness; and disbelieve a future retribution;

作諸惡事不修善行,官詞口舌水火盜橫

XXII. Perpetrate every vice, and cultivate no virtue. Such a man will be accused to the government; water and fire and robbers will assail him;

惡毒瘟疫生敗產蠱,殺身亡家男盜女淫

XXIII. Desperate poison, distemper and plague shall be his lot; he shall beget profligates and fools; himself shall be murdered, his family ruined; his sons robbers, his daughters whores.

近報在身遠報子孫,神明鑒察毫髮不差

XXIV. The nearer retributions shall fall on himself; the more distant retribution shall fall on his children and grandchildren. The gods look down and examine; and err not an hair's breadth.

善惡兩途禍福攸分,行善福報行惡禍臨

XXV. Virtue and vice are two roads which separate misery and happiness. The practice of virtue brings a happy recompense; on the perpetrators of vice, misery falls.

我作斯語願人奉行,言雖淺近大益身心

XXVI. I have made this discourse, wishing men to receive and practice it. The language, though shallow and near, will greatly benefit body and mind.

戲侮吾言斬首分形,有能持誦凶消慶聚

XXVII. Those who mock my words, shall be decapitated, and cut to pieces; for those who adhere to them and recite them evils shall be dispersed, and blessings accumulated.

求子得男求壽得齡,富貴功名皆能有成

XXVIII. He who desires children, shall have males; he who desires long life, shall attain to many years. The desires for riches, and honors, and fame, shall all be accomplished.

凡有所祈如意而獲,萬禍雪消百福駢臻

XXIX. Whatever is prayed for, shall be obtained according to the heart's wish. Ten thousand calamities shall melt like snow; and all blessings rush in like a troop.

吾言無私惟佑善人,衆人奉行毋怠毋昏

XXX. My words are not selfish, but for the aid of the virtues. Let all men respectfully practice them. Be not careless! Ie not darkened!

III.—BOOK OF REWARDS AND PUNISHMENTS, IN CHINESE AND ENGLISH.

Translated by T. Watters, Esq.

太上感應篇. THE KAN-YING-P'JEN, OR A Chapter on the Causes which Induce Retribution: by the Grand Supreme.

太上曰,禍福無門惟人自召,善惡之報如影隨形. The Grand-Supreme (i. e. Lao tzü) says—misfortune and prosperity have no door; they are evoked by men themselves. The rewards of virtue and vice are like the shadow following the substance.

是以天地有司過之神,依人所犯輕重,以

奪人算，算減則貧耗，多逢憂患，人皆惡之，刑禍隨之，吉慶避之，惡星災之，算盡則死。 Accordingly Heaven and Earth have spirits as ministers of transgressions, who cut off from men's lives periods commensurate with the slightness or gravity of their offences. When their term of life is curtailed men become poor and needy—they encounter many sorrows and troubles—all men hate them—punishments and misfortunes attend them—good luck and happiness keep away from them—evil stars bring them plagues: when the curtailment of their life is completed they die.

又有三台北斗神君在人頭上，錄人罪惡，奪其紀算。 There are also the San-Tai (Three Eminent Ones) and the Spirit-ruler of the Northern Bushel (star) above men's heads who keep a record of men's crimes and sins, and cut off periods of Twelve years or One Hundred years from their lives.

又有三尸神在人身中，每到庚申日，輒上詣天曹言人罪過。 There are also the Spirits of the San-shi within men's bodies, and on the arrival of each K'eng-shên day they hasten aloft and proceed to the Heavenly courts to report the crimes and transgressions of men.

月晦之日，竈神亦然。 On the last day of the moon the spirit of the Hearth also does this.

凡人有過，大則奪紀，小則奪算。 In all the cases of man's transgressions, when these are great, twelve years are cut off from his life, and when they are small, one hundred days.

其過大小有數百事，欲求長生者，先須避之。 The transgressions, great and small, consist of several hundreds of circumstances; and he who would seek for long life must first avoid them.

是道則進，非道則退。 If it is the right way, advance; if it is the wrong way, retire.

不履邪徑。 Do not tread devious by-ways.

不欺闇室。 Be not deceitful in your secret abode.

積德累功。 Amass virtue and heap up merit.

慈心於物。 Be compassionate to the brute creation.

忠孝友悌。 Be loyal, filial, loving to your younger and respectful to your elder brothers.

正己化人。 Make yourself right and you convert other men.

矜孤卹寡。 Be kind to orphans and compassionate to widows.

敬老懷幼。 Respect the aged and be tender hearted to the young.

昆蟲草木猶不可傷。 The insect tribes, the herbs and trees you may not injure.

宜憫人之凶。 It behooves you to have compassion for the misfortunes of others.

樂人之善。 Delight in the excellence of others.

濟人之急。 Assist men in their extremities.

救人之危。 Bring relief to men when in danger.

見人之得如己之得，見人之失如己之失。 Regard the gains of men as if they were your own gains, and the losses of men as if they were your own losses.

不彰人短。 Do not publish men's shortcomings.

不衒己長。 Do not puff up your own points of superiority.

遏惡揚善。 Stop what is bad—encourage what is good.

推多取少。 Yield much—exact little.

受辱不怨。 Receive insults without resentment.

受寵若驚。 Receive honor with fear, as it were.

施恩不求報。 Dispense bounty and seek not reward.

與人不追悔。 Give to others and do not afterwards regret.

所謂善人。 Such is called a good man.

人皆敬之。 All men respect him—

天道祐之。 Providence protects him—

福祿隨之。 Blessing and glory follow him—

衆邪遠之。 All evil things keep away from him—

神靈衛之。 The mysterious subtle powers encompass him—

所作必成。 Whatever he attempts is sure to succeed—

神僊可冀。 And he may hope to become a spirit or genius.

欲求天德者，當立一千三百善，欲求地德者，當立三百善。 He who would seek to become a Heavenly Genius must give rise to 1,300 virtuous actions; he who would become an Earthly Genius must give rise to 300 virtuous actions.

 春月燎獵， In the spring months sets the woods on fire and then hunts—

對北惡罵， Utters angry resentments facing the north—

無故殺龜打蛇， Kills tortoises and smites snakes without any reason—

如是等罪，司命隨其輕重，奪其紀算，算 盡則死，死有餘責，乃殃及子孫。 In crimes like these, the Minister of Life according as the offence is light or serious cuts off periods of twelve years or one hundred days, and at the end of the curtailing, death comes—if at death there remain guilt, the punishment extends to descendants.

又諸橫取人財者，乃計其妻子家口以
 當之。漸至死喪，若不死喪，則有水
 火盜賊遺亡器物疾病口舌諸事，以
 當妄取之直。 In all cases in which one seizes violently another's property, an account is taken of the wives and family of the offender, and these are gradually brought to death as an equipoise, and if they do not die then, there are troubles from water, fire, thieves, loss of property and failure in affairs, sickness, and evil talk in order to restore the equilibrium disturbed by the wicked appropriation.

又枉殺人者，是易刀兵而相殺也。 Farther, those who put others to death wrongly are like men who exchange arms and slay each other.

取非義之財者，譬如漏脯救饑，燭止渴，

非不暫飽，死亦及之。 To amass unrighteous riches is like relieving hunger by putrid food, or quenching thirst by poisonous wine; though there is always a momentary satiety, death also ensues.

夫心起於善，善雖未爲，而吉神已隨之，或
 心起於惡，惡雖未爲，而凶神已隨之。
 If your mind is stirred to good, though the good be not performed, the lucky spirits follow you; and if your mind is stirred to evils, though the evil be not performed, yet the unlucky spirits follow you.

其有曾行惡事後自改悔，諸惡莫作，衆善
 奉行，久久必獲吉慶，所謂轉禍爲福
 也。 If he who has already done what is wicked voluntarily repents, and does not do anything that is evil but respectfully practices all virtues, he will in the long run certainly have good luck and prosperity and this is what is called changing calamity into blessing.

故古人語善，視善行善，一日有三善，三
 年天必降之福。凶人語惡，視惡行惡，
 一日有三惡，三年天必降之禍。 Accordingly the good man is virtuous in word, look, and action, and having these virtues daily, at the end of three years, Heaven will certainly bless him. The wicked man is evil in word, look, and action, and having these three vices daily at the end of three years, Heaven is sure to send him calamity.

胡不勉而行之。 How is it, then, that men will not exert themselves to practice virtue?

TWO DESIRES; 二願. Desire heaven constantly to produce good men; 願天常生
 好人. Desire men constantly to perform good actions; 願人常行好事.

TWO ONLYS; 二惟. Only by being frugal

you can cultivate integrity; 惟儉可以助 廉. Only by being reciprocal in your feelings you can perfect virtue; 惟恕可以成 德.

TWO BETTERS; 二寧. (In profitless affairs)

Do not despise or make sport of them thus weak and shrouded in darkness. You must strive to instruct and assist them; 尋方便在矜愚昏聩莫輕侮豈冀須動渠。Seek an opportunity for doing good in soothing those who have no kindred. They are lonely and lament that they have no one to lean upon. Haste to lend mutual help to them cast down and in danger; 尋方便在撫孤伶仃恨無依賴危亟相扶。Seek an opportunity for doing good in showing kindness to those under you. Servants and employes all belong to mankind. In all things be generous and liberal towards them; 尋方便在惜下僕役皆人子百事從寬大。Seek an opportunity for doing good in giving sepulture to the bones of the dead. Although the bones are decayed, the wandering spirit is in very truth an object of pity; 尋方便在掩骼白骨雖已朽游魂實堪哀。Seek an opportunity for doing good in making away with the wicked. Would you rather bear with such men! When the wicked are removed, good people rejoice; 尋方便在除惡寧獨忍斯人惡除良民樂。

TEN MUSTS; 十要得. When you perceive an opportunity for good, you must embrace it; 於見善時要行得. When you fall into error, you must reform; 於過失時要改得. When in poverty, you must bear it; 於貧窮時要耐得. When in suffering, you must endure it; 於辛苦時要受得. When crossed in your purposes, you must be patient; 於拂意時要忍得. When annoyed and vexed, you must cast your cares to the wind; 於煩惱時要遣得. When licentious thoughts arise, you must curb them; 於私欲時要遏得. When speaking, you must let your words be well-ordered; 於言語時要檢得. In times of great excitement and display, you must be indifferent; 於濃熱時要淡得. Under long protraction, you must be constant; 於久遠時要恒得.

TEN ABILITIES; 十能. If you are able to be satisfied, you will receive and enjoy the numberless blessings of life; 能知足受享平生千萬福. If you are able to devote yourself to study, your literary reputation will be illustrious and you will become a renowned scholar; 能讀書榮顯科名成大儒. If you are able to give due filial respect to your parents, your children will in like manner comply with your pleasure; 能孝親爾子承歡照樣行. If you are able to teach your children, coming generations will be prosperous, such will be the result; 能教子後代興隆合至此. If you are able to be diligent and frugal, your household will be clothed and fed, and there will be no words of lamentation or feelings of ill-will; 能勤儉闔家飽煖無嗟怨. If you are able to be mild and peaceful, every body will be delighted with you and pleasant circumstances will abound; 能謙和遍地人歡樂事多. If you are able to curb lust, your days will be prolonged, disease be restrained and your energies unimpaired; 能節慾延年却病精神足. If you are able to conform to duty, you will make little account of whether you gain or lose, whether you have come to the end of your string or whether the way be still open; 能安分得失窮通多不問. If you are able to bear with patience, by playing a timid man no harm will come to you; 能忍耐作個懦夫無禍害. If you are able to be circumspect in your speech, you will not be implicated in matters of slander and litigation; 能謹言是非爭訟不牽連.

V.—SECTION ON MERIT, 功 券.

* The nine thoughts of the good man are:—視思明,聽思聰,色思溫,貌思恭,語思忠,疑思問,事思謹,思難,見得思義。

† The three fears of the sage are:—畏上帝,畏功名,畏聖賢者。

VIII.—PROVERBS IN CHINESE AND ENGLISH.

Translated by Herbert J. Allen, Esq.

I.—ON HEAVEN.

人不看見天看見。 Heaven sees what is invisible to man.

人間私語天聞若雷，暗室虧心神目如電。 Whispers sound like thunder in the hearing of heaven, and one's secret thoughts are as clear as lightning in the eyes of the gods.

天眼昭昭，報應甚速。 Heaven has eyes more penetrating than the light and will speedily give to all their deserts.

禍從天上來，但求心無愧。 Misfortunes come from heaven, but search the heart to see that you have nothing to be ashamed of.

大家都是命，半點不由人。 The universe exists by the fiat of heaven, the smallest atom does not depend on man.

爲善鬼神欽，作惡彼(被)天譴。 A good man is honoured by both gods and demons, but the evil doer will be rebuked by heaven.

人靠天工，船靠舵工。 Man is guided by heaven, as the ship by the helmsman.

人見目前，天見久遠。 Man views the present, heaven sees the past and future.

善人得福爲之賞，惡人得福爲之殃。 Wealth is a blessing to the good, but a curse to the wicked.

稍善雖無人見，存心自有天知。 The smallest desire to do good is, though unseen by man, certainly known to heaven.

閑時不燒香，急時抱佛脚。 Neglect to burn incense at the proper time and you will some day have to clasp Buddha's feet.

聖賢言語神欽鬼伏。 The gods respect and the demons adore the maxims of the sages.

人害人不死，天害人纔害死了。 Man's injuries may be born, but the hand of heaven destroys.

II.—ON STUDY.

造燭教明，讀書救(究)理，明以照暗室，理以照人心。 You make a candle to save the light and you study to gain understanding. The light illumines a dark room, and understanding the hearts of men.

學然後知不足。 The more a man learns the more he sees his ignorance.

三日不讀書，語言無味。 Three days without study makes a man's discourse insipid.

能學則庶民之子爲公卿，不學則公卿之子爲庶民。 By study a poor's son may be a statesman, but indolence will turn a statesman's son into a poor.

士者國之寶，儒爲席上珍。 The savant is the Empire's jewel, the student the gem of the hearth.

萬般皆下品，惟有讀書高。 Study is the highest pursuit a man can follow.

學在一人之下，用在萬人之上。 The learner is the inferior of one man, but when he makes use of his learning he is the superior of a myriad.

讀書須用意，一字值千金。 In study application is needed, for every letter is worth 1,000 pieces of money.

同君一夜話，勝讀十年書。 One night's talk with an intelligent companion is worth more than ten years' study.

III.—ON THE BREVITY OF LIFE.

長江後浪催前浪，世上新人趕舊人。 On the great river one wave follows another, and in life new men drive out the old.

古人不見今時月，今月曾經照古人。 The ancients see not now the moon which in times past shed its light on them.

天下無不散的筵席。 There is no permanent feast on earth.

苦日難熬，歡時易過。 The days of adversity are hard to bear, prosperous times glide easily along.

送君千里，終有一別。 Though you escort a friend for a thousand li, the parting must come at last.

多少少年亡，不到白頭死。 Numbers die before they attain old age.

人情似紙張張薄，世事如棋局局新。 Human affection is thin as a sheet of paper; men's actions alternate like moves on a chessboard.

豹死留皮，人死留名。 The leopard when he dies leaves his skin, the man his reputation.

人生不滿百，常懷千歲憂。 Man though hardly living to a hundred, is ever anxious (that his fame) should endure for a thousand years.

IV.—DISCRETION IN WORDS.

一言憤事，一人定國。 One word ruins an affair, one man subdues a state.

逢人且說三分話，未可全拋一片心。 When you meet a man speak but three tenths of your thoughts, do not lay bare your heart.

好言難得，惡語易施，一言既出，驢馬難退 (追)。 Good words are hard to get, but bad are easily said; a word once uttered will hardly be overtaken by a chariot with four horses.

成事莫說，覆水難收。 A thing once done should not be talked about, water upset cannot be recovered.

守口如瓶，防意如城。 Let your mouth be closed like a bottle, guard your thoughts as you would a city.

牆有縫，壁有耳。 Walls have cracks and partitions ears.

啞啞寡言者未必愚，喋喋利口者未必智。 He that hesitates, and is slow of speech need not be a fool, nor is a glib and fluent speaker necessarily a sage.

家醜不可外揚。 Domestic foibles should not be exposed.

誰人(背後)無人說，那個人前不說人。 Every one is talked of when absent, and talks of his neighbours in the presence of others.

三思而行，再(思)斯可矣。 Some act after thinking thrice over a matter, but one's second thoughts are best.

見官莫向前，做客莫在後。 Do not be too forward before an official, or too backward in business.

知者不言，言者不知。 The sage is not a talker, nor the talker a sage.

V.—ON EDUCATION.

養子不教如養驢，養女不教如養豬。 Sons and daughters brought up without education are like donkeys and pigs.

有田不耕倉廩虛，有書不讀子孫愚。 If your fields lie fallow, your granaries will be empty, if your books are not studied your children will be fools.

大家禮義教子弟，小家兇惡教兒郎。 High-born children are taught to be polite and virtuous, but the sons of low bred parents learn to be unmannerly and vicious. Like father like son.

惜錢莫教子，護短莫從師。 In educating your sons spare no money, and be not partial to their faults.

養兒防老，積穀防飢。 Bring up your sons to be a main stay for your old age, store your corn to guard against famine.

訓子嬰孩，教婦初來。 Instruct your sons from infancy, and your wife from the time she enters your house.

VI.—ON EVIL SPEAKING.

人多處，是非多。 Many men many tongues.

是非終日有，不聽自然無。 Backbiting goes on from morn to night, but be deaf and it must die.

是非只爲多開口，煩惱皆因強出頭。 Backbiting is merely the result of gossip, all troubles come from over-anxiety to excel.

平生只會說人短，何不回頭把自量。 Why do those who always slander others not weigh their own actions?

利刀割體瘡在，惡語傷恨不消。 A cut from a sharp knife leaves a curable wound, but unkind words that wound cause undying hate.

頭可斬，舌不可禁。 You can cut off a man's head, but cannot stop his mouth.

害得性命，玷不得清名。 A man may be deprived of life, but his good name cannot be tarnished.

鋼刀雖快，不斬無罪。 The steel sword, sharp though it is, cannot behead the innocent.

VII.—ON WOMAN.

一家養女，百家求。 One woman is sought by hundreds.

紅顏女子多薄命，聰明子弟少容顏。 Beautiful women have generally an evil fate; intelligent men are seldom handsome.

女德無極，婦怒(怨)無終。 A woman's virtue and a wife's jealousy are illimitable.

青竹蛇兒口，黃蜂尾上針，兩般不算毒，最毒婦人心。 The bite of the green lamloo-snake and the sting of the wasp are not so deadly as a wife's hatred.

妻賢夫禍少，子孝父心寬。 With a sensible wife a man's troubles are few, and with a dutiful son he is happy.

聖妻聖德，聖妾聖色。 A wife is sought for her virtue, a concubine for her beauty.

十個女人，九個妒。 Nine women in ten are jealous.

VIII.—ON FORETHOUGHT.

池塘積水因防旱，田地深耕足養家。 Collect water in your ponds to provide against thirst, and till your fields well that your family may have enough.

晴帶雨傘，飽帶飢糧。 Carry an umbrella in fine weather, and food after eating your fill.

一年之計在於春，一日之計在於寅。 Make your plans for the year in spring, and those for the day in the early morning.

年年防饑，夜夜防盜。 Guard against famine every year, and against thieves every night.

安不可忘危，治不可忘亂。 Forget not dangers when in security, nor troublous times when the government enjoys peace.

富人思來年，貧人思日前。 The rich man thinks but of the future, the poor man of the present.

人情莫道春光好，只怕秋來有冷時。 Let not man pride himself on the bright spring of prosperity, for the bleak autumn of adversity is at hand.

人無遠慮，必有近憂。 To the man who cares not for the future, troubles are nigh at hand.

得寵思辱，安居慮危。 He who enjoys favours should be prepared for reverses, and he who lives in security should be forewarned against danger.

少年不努力，老來徒傷悲。 Youth may, old age cannot.

驗其前，便知其後。 Consider the past and you will know the future.

前事之不忘，後事之師也。 The remembrance of the deeds of past ages is our best guide in the future.

富從升合起，貧因不算來。 Riches spring from small beginnings; poverty is the result of unthriftiness.

利(利)錢猶如針挑土，用錢猶如水冲沙。 Money comes like earth dug up with a needle but goes like sand washed away by water.

IX.—ON GOOD COUNSELS.

一毫之惡勸人莫作，一毫之善與人方便。 The smallest wrong, men should be urged to abstain from, and the slightest good helped to perform.

人不勸不善，鐘不撞不鳴。 Man unimpelled by the force of example does no good, so a bell unring does not sound.

木從繩則正，君從諫則聖。 If the mark is followed, the wood will be well sawn; if the prince attends to his counselors, he will be a sage.

好問則裕，自用則小。 The liberal mind likes to ask advice, but the small mind depends on itself alone.

X.—ON FRIENDS.

天下無不是的父母，世間最難得者兄弟。 One's father and mother never do wrong; brothers are very hard to find.

少時是兄弟，長大各鄉里。 Brothers in their youth, but separated when grown up.

君子之交淡如水，小人之交甜如蜜。 A superior man's friendship is tasteless as water and that of an inferior man sweet as honey.

有茶有酒多兄弟，急難何曾見一人。 If you have tea and wine, your dear friends will be numerous; but let adversity come, and you will see no one.

相見易得好，久住難爲人。 On first acquaintance it is easy to be on good terms, but live together for a time and you will be a bore.

交官窮，交客富，交和尚得緣部(簿)。 Be friends with an official and you will get poor, with a merchant and you will get rich, with a priest and you will get a subscription book.

好人和逢，惡人相離。 Good men seek each other, the bad mutually repel.

君子愛人以德，小人之愛(人)以姑息。 The superior man does good to the man he loves; the inferior man is indulgent to his foibles.

酒逢知己飲，詩向會人吟。 Drink wine with your intimate friends and talk poetry with those who appreciate it.

XI.—ON GRATITUDE.

忘恩背義，禽獸之徒。 An ungrateful man is no better than a wild beast.

寧可人負我，不可我負人。 Better be the victim of ingratitude than be ungrateful.

當家纔知鹽米貴，養子方知父母恩。 You must be a steward to know the value of provisions, and have children to appreciate a parent's love.

羊有跪乳之恩，鴉有反哺之義。 Even sheep kneel to give their milk, and crows feed their young by disgorging.

XII.—ON GOODS.

偷得利而後有害。 Gain dishonestly acquired will do a man harm.

錢財如糞土，仁義值千金。 Money is as dirt, benevolence and goodness are worth one thousand taels of gold.

貧窮自在，富貴多憂。 The poor are happy; the rich have many cares.

黃金何足貴，安樂值錢多。 Gold is worth nothing, but to be happy and secure is a priceless treasure.

子孫賢而多財則損其心，愚而多財則益其過。 If your children are wise, money will corrupt them; if foolish, it will magnify their vices.

富貴肉食，貧賤藿食。 The rich and noble eat meat; the low born eat vegetables.

運去金成鐵，時來鐵似金。 If luck is absent, gold turns into iron, but let luck be with you and iron becomes gold.

有錢使得鬼動，無錢喚不得人來。 With money one can raise a spirit; without it he cannot command a man.

非針不引線，無水不渡船。 The thread cannot pass without the needle, nor the boat cross without water.

不求金玉重貴，但願子孫個個賢。 Do not seek to amass wealth; let your sole desire be that your posterity may all be wise.

公人見錢如螻蛄見血。 Public men at the sight of money are like flies that see blood.

錢落差手，羊落虎口。 Money dropping into the hands of a yamun runner is like a sheep in a tiger's mouth.

衙門八字開，有理無錢莫進來。 The doors of the Yamen stand wide open, but though you may be in the right do not go in without money.

有錢高三輩，無錢三輩低。 Money brings destruction with it.

XIII.—ON ADVERSITY.

大難不死，必有厚祿。 He who does not succumb under great hardships is sure to come to great honour.

所樂者淺，所患者深。 Joy is superficial; troubles lie deep.

無錢休入衆，遭難莫尋親。 Without money do not enter a crowd, and in adversity do not seek your relations.

玉不琢不成器，人不磨不成道。 A piece of jade unless cut forms no article of utensil nor is man perfected without trials.

若藥不暎眩，厥疾不瘳。 If the medicine does not create dizziness, you will not recover from your sickness.

十年寒窗無人問，一舉成名天下知。 Toil for ten years in poverty without any one to speak to, but once make a name and you are known to the world.

XIV.—ON CAPITAL VICES.

天道虧盈而益謙。 By the law of Heaven the proud are reduced, and the humble enriched.

天地人神俱欣謙而不喜盈，謙者賜之福，盈者賜之禍。 Heaven, earth, men and spirits like humility and detest pride; so prosperity is given to the humble, and misfortunes to the proud.

滿招損，謙受益。 The proud bring calamity on themselves; the humble are blessed with riches.

貧寒休要怨，富厚不須驕。 The poor should not repine; the rich should not be proud.

從儉入奢易，從奢入儉難。 It is easy for the economical to become prodigal, but not for the prodigal to be economical.

同道者相愛，同藝者相嫉。 Those who follow the path of virtue love each other, but men of the same trade are envious of each other.

飽煖生淫慾，飢寒起盜心。 Those who live in luxury have sensual ideas; cold and hunger make men thieves.

國清才子貴，家富兒子驕。 When the empire flourishes, the talented are held in honour; when the family is rich, the children are proud.

入山不怕傷人虎，只怕人情兩面刀。 Fear not the man-killing tiger of the hills; the double-faced man is alone to be dreaded.

外披羊皮，內藏狼心。 A wolf in sheep's clothing.

千鈞之弩不爲鼯鼠發機。 Don't use a balista of thirty thousand catties to kill a mouse.

XV.—ON PARENTS.

有兒窮不久，無子富不長。 If you have sons, you will not long remain poor; but if you have none, your riches will not last long.

父子安而家不退，兄弟和而家不分。 If father and son are on good terms, the house will never fall; if brothers agree, the patrimony will not be divided.

人莫知其子之惡，農莫知其苗之碩。 Men know not their children's faults; the husbandman knows not when his corn is ripe.

父債子還之，子債父不知。 The son pays the father's debts; the father knows nothing of those of his son.

父子恩深終有別，夫妻義重也分離。 The father and son must separate, however great the favours shown; the husband and wife must part, however deep their love.

有兒靠兒，無兒靠塔。 If you have a son, depend on him; if not, on your son-in-law.

XVI.—ON JUDGING.

人不可貌相，海不可斗量。 A man cannot be known by his looks, nor can the sea be measured by a bushel.

無以容貌取人。 Don't judge by appearances. 畫水無風空作浪，繡花雖好不聞香。 In sketching water, the waves are made without wind; in embroidery, the flowers, beautiful though they are, have no smell.

人人有臉，樹樹有皮。 All men have a face (i. e. reputation); all trees their bark.

XVII.—ON PRUDENCE.

明知山有虎，莫向虎山行。 If you know there are tigers in the hills, don't go there.

再三須重事，第一莫欺心。 Think again and again of the gravity of an affair; the first requisite is not to deceive one's self.

念念有如臨淵日，心心常似過橋時。 Reflect well as if you stood on the brink of an abyss, and be at all times as careful as when you cross a plank-bridge.

出外做客，不要露白。 When you engage in trade abroad, don't show your money.

差之毫厘，失之千里。 A slight deviation makes you lose one thousand li.

XVIII.—ON PATIENCE.

忍得一時之氣，免得百日之憂。 Keep down the temper of the moment, and you will save one hundred day's anxiety.

少間弗忍，終身之差。 Give way to your temper for an instant and you may rue it your whole life.

百年成之不足，一日壞之有餘。 One day will easily destroy what it has taken more than one hundred years to make.

XIX.—ON WISDOM AND VIRTUE.

茫茫四海人無數，那個男人是丈夫。 There are countless myriads of men scattered through the world, but what man can be called a hero.

君子愛財取之有道，尊富愛色納之以禮。 Superior men like wealth but they attain it by honest means; the rich and noble like beauty, but they acquire it legally.

君子樂得做君子，小人枉自做小人。 The superior man is glad in that he has attained to knowledge; the small minded man has no ambition to improve himself.

知者樂水，仁者樂山。 The wise man likes the water; the pious man the hills.

善必壽考，惡必早亡。 The virtuous are sure to live long; the wicked are sure to die early.

善惡隨人作，禍福自己招。 Men are free to be virtuous or wicked, so their good or bad fortune is of their own making.

人老心不老，家窮行不窮。 Man grows old in years, but his heart does not grow old; he may be poor, but still capable of noble actions.

爲善最樂，爲惡難逃。 The greatest pleasure is to be virtuous; the woes which result from wickedness cannot be escaped.

善人聽說心中刺，惡人聽說耳邊風。 Evil counsel stings a good man's heart; good advice cannot penetrate the ears of a wicked man.

雅不好鬥，雅不嗜酒。 Gentlemen are not fond of strife nor are they immoderately fond of wine.

君子喻於義，小人喻於利。 The superior man seeks after goodness; the small minded man seeks the acquisition of wealth.

先有自己，後有他人。 Charity begins at home. 若要不知，除非莫爲。 If you don't want a thing to be known, you must not do it.

賞以勸善，罰以懲惡。 A reward is an inducement to the good; a punishment is a warning to the wicked.

積善者昌，積惡者喪。 Accumulated good leads to prosperity; accumulated wrong to death.

善花不足，惡花有餘(善話勸人多，惡話誘人偏)。 There is too little good advice and too much bad in the world.

XX.—ON UNION AND DILIGENCE.

一家之計在於和，一生之計在於勤。 Harmony should be the policy of the family; diligence that of the individual.

家中不和隣里欺，隣里不和說是非。 If the family is disunited, the neighbours take advantage of its members; if the neighbours, talebearing prevails.

和得鄉里好，猶如撿片寶。 To be on good terms with one's neighbour is better than finding a jewel.

路不行不到，事不爲不成。 If you do not travel, you will not arrive at your destination; if you do not act, you will never accomplish anything.

Or it is Upadaya, relying on for instruction; or it is Upadhyaya, self taught teacher.

闍黎 Acharyya, preceptor, one of correct conduct.

X.—SUPERNATURAL BEINGS.

天 The Sanscrit Deva and Latin Deus. They are pure, bright, superexcellent, and honourable beings; possessed of all the virtues, and inhabiting various paradisaical abodes on mount Sumeru. A son of a Deva is called 天子. Devaputra, 二十四天, twenty four of the Devas, (including Brahma and Indra) selected to be represented by images in Buddhist temples.

四大天王 The four great kings of Devas. They inhabit the lower parts of Mount Sumeru.

多聞天王 Vaishramana, one of the four kings. He rules in the north. The Yakshas and Rakshasas are subject to him. His name is written 轉沙門.

增長天王 Virudhaka, one of the four kings.

He rules in the south and leads the Kumbhandas and Pretas. His name in Chinese is 毗流離.

持國天王 Dhritarashtra, one of the four kings. He rules in the east and leads the Gandharvas and Pishachas. His name in Chinese is 提多羅咤.

廣目天王 Virupaksha, one of the four kings. He rules in the west and leads the dragons. His name in Chinese is 毗流波叉.

帝釋 Indra shakra. The Hindoo god of the air. He is also called 釋提桓因. Indra is the帝 of the first of these names, and the 因 of the second. Shakra is 釋; and Deva, god, is 提桓.

梵天 Brahma. This deity with Indra Yama, and Shiva are, to Chinese Buddhists the best known of the Indian gods.

尸棄 Thik'ina. Fire. A Brahma who used fire to conquer the desires.

大自在天 Maheshvara. Shiva. He has 8 arms and three eyes. His name is written 摩醯首羅.

日神 Spirit of the sun. Surva.

月神 Spirit of the moon. Soma.

龍 Dragons. The Nagas. They superintend rain, rivers, and the sea.

夜叉 Yakshas. The celestial Yakshas pass through the air with chariots and horses. They guard the walls and moats of some of the paradises. The terrestrial Yakshas cannot move through the air.

羅刹 Rakshasas. A class of swift moving demons.

乾闥婆 Gandharvas. The celestial musicians.

阿脩羅 Asuras. Demons of monstrous size, nearly but not quite, equal in power to the Devas.

羅睺 Rahu. The demon whose locality is the moon's ascending node, and who causes eclipses. His body is 84,000 yojanas in length, and with the palm of his hand he can hide the sun and moon. Rahu belongs to the class of Asuras.

緊那羅 Kinnaras. Men having horns and therefore not men, excellent singers and players on stringed and bamboo instruments. They perform before the Devas.

摩睺羅伽 Mahoragas. Kings of the serpents. The genius of the boaconstrictor; in Chinese, 大蟒神.

魔 Māra, a demon. A killer. It is connected with the root Māra, death; māraka, a destroyer. He resides in one of the celestial paradises.

波旬 A sinner. A fiend, Pāpacharya, sinner from pāpa, sin, vile; a name of Māra.

準提 Chundi. A form of the Hindoo goddess Durga; called also 斗姥, and located by the Chinese in the great Bear. She is also styled 佛母, femal Buddha, and 摩利支 marichi, the dawning light.

閻磨羅 Yama. The Hindoo god of death. Also ruler of the 6th Paradise.

XI.—CLASSES OF MEN. HERETICS.

茂泥 Aged men who do not die, genii. They are also called terrestrial Rishi.

五戒 The five prohibitions, viz. 1. Not to kill. 2. Not to steal. 3. Not to commit fornication. 4. Not to lie. 5. Not to drink wine.

丈夫 The man of integrity and virtue, Purusha. He knows what Buddha's true nature is, 佛性.

凡夫 A fool. Bāla.

帝 Emperor. Indra, the god of the air.

轉輪王 Chakra vartti rajah. An emperor. From Chakra, wheel; vartti, turning, the appearance of a bright wheel in the air is for them a happy omen, and they turn the wheel of reformation. These "wheel Kings" after death become Devas.

長者 Elder. In India, a rich man.

善施 To give liberally. Sudatta, well given. Also 樂施.

外道 Heretics. Men of other religions.

婆羅門 Brahmins. These of pure life. Born from the mouth of Brahma.

梵志 Brahmachāri. Religious student. Descendant of Brahma, the pure.

一闍底 Opposers of Buddhism were so called. Ichchānishti, restrainers of desires.

四韋陀 The four Vedas.

十苦 The ten miseries by which man is constantly beset; i. e. birth, sickness, old age, death, sorrow, hatred, &c.

十種大毒箭 The ten poisonous arrows constantly shot at man; i. e. love, covetousness, faults, stupidity, pride, &c.

XII.—THE DEMON WORLD.

脩羅窟 Cave of the Asuras. A place in central India where the Asuras have been seen living in splendid palaces, as beautiful as those of the Devas. Their food and costume are like those of the Devas.

阿須羅王 King of the Asuras. He is of vast size. When he advances to fight against the sun and moon, the kings of those luminaries are very much afraid, and they cease to give light.

鬼神 The Buddhist demons and spirits are much addicted to sorcery and perform wicked acts in secret spots. They are therefore fond of living under the shadow of cliffs and beside retired mountain streams and in rocky glens.

餓鬼 Hungry ghosts. This word means ghost, deceased, etc. Their eyes are like lightning, their throats like a needle, and they are without food.

餓鬼界 Region of the Pretas, 500 yojanas below the world of men. They are ruled by Yama, i. e. Yen lo wang.

XIII.—ANIMALS.

畜生 Animals. The fifth class of the metempsychosis. They are ranked lower than demons and higher than hell. Stupidity is the cause of men being born in this class. They act tortuously, and will therefore after death move tortuously. The Sanscrit for animal is toryach, which also means moving crookedly, and has thus given rise to this explanation.

胎卵濕化 The four births. That of mammalia, from eggs, from spawning, and by transformation.

金翅鳥 The golden winged bird. A monstrous bird that feeds on dragons.

海龍 The sea dragon. A monster with horns, large teeth and a thick scaly covering. He is fond of sleep.

龍王 King of the sea dragons. He lives in a palace at the bottom of the sea on the north side of the Sumeru mountain.

XIV.—HEAVEN AND HELL.

天堂 Palace of the Devas. Common word for heaven as a place of reward for the good. Buddhism supposes heaven to be happier than earth, but its inhabitants still suffer from bodily weakness. The passions exist, and death comes at last to change the soul's abode, according to the unerring and universal law of retributive fate. The only true and lasting reward for the good is the Nirvana.

三界 The three worlds. The world of the passions, that of sight, and that of invisibility.

欲界 The world of the passions. It includes earth, hell, the palace of Tushita, Yama, Shakra, and all the paradises of heaven below that of Brahma.

色界 The world of vision. It includes the regions occupied by the Brahmas, and others styled the paradises of light, purity, &c.

無色界 The world of invisibility. It is described as the complete absence of thought and matter.

六道 The six paths of the metempsychosis, 天, 人, 修羅, 畜生, 餓鬼, 地獄. Devas, man, Asuras, beasts, hungry ghosts, and hell. A place in these classes is assigned by retributive fate to all living beings. Buddhism does not allow the essential difference between man and beast as arising from the possession by man of an intellectual and moral nature. It looks on all beings as suffering on account of former sins, and does not attempt to explain how they became created.

輪迴 The revolving reunion. Samsāra. The world. In Sanserit samsriti is the world, and samsrishri, reunited. Shrishri is created, joined; and Sriti, to move, run, roll. Sam is with. Hence the Chinese lun hwei means a combination of revolving and re-union.

二十八天 The 28 paradises. Six are in the world of passion, eighteen in the world of division, and four in the world of invisibility.

四天王天 The palace of the four kings of Devas. It is situated half way up mount Sumeru.

三十三天 The heaven of the thirty three. Traiyastimsas. Indra shakva occupies the central peak of Sumeru. The other four peaks are occupied each by eight Devas, who with Indra their chief make up 33 in all.

XV.—VIRTUES. VIRTUOUS ACTS.

誓願 Uttering a form of words to restrain the mind is 誓. The completed wish is 願, as in 許願, utter a wish and promise.

發誓 To take an oath. Utter a solemn declaration, e. g. that I desire the salvation of all living beings 衆生, or that I desire the destruction of all the passions and mental distresses 煩惱, or that I desire to learn the Buddhist doctrine 法.

六度 The six means of salvation. (1) 布施, alms-giving; (2) 持戒, keeping vows; (3) 忍辱, bearing reproach with patience; (4) 精進, progress in clear knowledge; (5) 禪定, contemplative reverie; (6) 智慧, wisdom.

XVI.—DOCTRINAL VIEW OF BUDDHA'S LIFE.

四觀 Four views. Shakyamuni, at 19 years of age went out of the four city gates and saw exemplified age, sickness, death, the end.

大悟 Buddha's great mental awakening.

成道, 或成正等覺. Buddha's perfect attainment of spiritual knowledge, or perfect perception.

轉法輪 To cause the wheel of Buddhist doctrine to revolve; i. e. to preach Buddhism.

離分別性 To leave the secular nature with its divisions, or to abandon that imperfect moral nature which concerns itself with divided occupation.

生無住心 To get a mind without prejudice or hindrance.

不住色聲香味觸法生心 Not to remain in the mind which is produced by the six objects of sense, namely:—sight, sound, smell, taste, touch, and doctrine.

不行姪欲 Not to give rein to the licentious desires.

放捨根塵 To let go the six acts 六根, and the six objects 六塵, of sense. That is, to become free from the influence of the world of matter and give one's self to contemplation.

寂滅爲樂 To enter into stillness and extinction is joy.

入涅槃 To enter the Nirvana.

XVII.—COMPENDIOUS PHRASES EMBODYING THE TEACHING OF CHINESE BUDDHISTS.

人天小果 Small fruits of men and Devas. To build monasteries and multiply copies of the Buddhist books is so called, as being a small attainment.

淨智妙圓 Pure knowledge, profound and complete.

息緣安心 To stop the twelve causes (age, death, &c.) and place the mind at rest.

指心見性 By appealing to the mind itself you will arrive at the perception of the true Buddhist nature.

身佛無別 There is no difference between myself and Buddha. That is, Buddha is within you. Seek him not beyond yourself.

無縛何解 While you are not bound, why seek to be set free?

本身三昧 The reverie of high attainment is in yourself (Samadhi).

性空無性 My nature being vacancy, is in fact no nature at all. That is, my nature is so empty and intangible that it may be described as nothing, and when I see this I may be said to understand what it is.

念念自見 By thinking persistently you will come to know yourself.

屏息外緣勿生一念 You should expel and put a stop to the outer causes (十二因緣) of error and failure, and not allow a thought to arise in your mind.

心行性生 When the mind moves (in exploring the world of doctrine 法界), the Buddha-nature is revealed.

心地性王 In the region of the mind, the Buddha-nature is king.

覺性如來 The Buddha who teaches us to perceive what our real nature is.

無生無滅 To be without birth or destruction (is happiness).

如來禪坐 Ju-lai sits engaged in contemplation.

自心是佛 Your own mind is Buddha.

XVIII.—CHARACTERISTIC SAYINGS OF THE SCHOOL CALLED 馮仰宗

One of the Chinese Buddhist schools.

無心是道 To be without thought is wisdom.

返思還源 To bend back the thoughts is to return to the great origin.

XIX.—CHARACTERISTIC SAYINGS OF THE SCHOOL CALLED 臨濟宗

無位真人 There is within you an unthroned true teacher.

努力步空 Exert your strength in traversing the path of vacancy.

身是道場 Why burn incense so diligently? You yourself are the worshipping hall.

XX.—SAYINGS OF THE EXOTERIC SCHOOL.

期生淨土 Seek to be born in the land of rest.

涅槃常住 The long abiding of the Nirvana.

一心念佛 With undivided mind to recite the Buddhist prayers.

專脩淨業 With the whole mind to cultivate the habits which secure the inheritance of the pure land.

唱佛來迎 As he chants about Buddha, Buddha comes to receive him.

XXI.—THE THREE DEVELOPMENTS.

禪有淺深階級 In contemplation there are shallow and deep stages.

小乘禪 Contemplation in the stage of small development.

聲聞小乘 The small development attained by the ordinary disciple.

緣覺中乘 The middle development attained by those who have come to the perception of the twelve causes.

菩薩大乘 The greater development attained by the Bodhisattwas.

XXII.—THE THREE COLLECTIONS.

經 The Sutras or discourses of Buddha, 脩多羅.

律 The Vinaya 毘尼 or discipline. The collection of the teaching of the Bodhisattwas. The object of discipline is 調伏煩惱, to reduce to subjection annoying feelings and things. Vinati is bowing. Vinaya is obeisance, decorum. It promotes good conduct, 萬善由之生長; all virtues are born from it. It is also 涅槃之初門, the first gate to the Nirvana, and 佛法瓔珞, the crowning wreath of Buddha's law.

論 Discourses, 阿毘曇. Abidharma. The first division Mātrikā; the second, 奢薩怛囉, Shastras; the third, 烏波你舍, Upanishads; the fourth, 阿毘達磨, Abhidharma, that which is over against the law, i. e. additional to the Sutras, or that which can answer what opposes.

三藏 Tripitaka. The three collections.

大乘 Māhanāya. Great vehicle or great development.

小乘 Hinayana. Little vehicle or little development.

法相宗 School of the image of the law. System of the Yoga and other Shastras.

無相宗 School that denies the existence of form. System of the Pradīna Paramita.

終教 School of the end. System of the Nirvana Sutra and Lotus of the good law or 法華經, the Fahwaking, pronounced at the end of Buddha's life.

頓教 School of sudden expansion. System of the Langa Sutra brought to China by Bodhidharma.

圓教 School of completeness. System of the

- Hwa yen king.
瑜伽密教 Secret school of Yoga, taught by 不空, a celebrated Buddhist of the Tang dynasty.
中論性教 School of the Madhyamika philosophy. System taught by Nagardjuna 龍樹, in the Shashtra called chung lun.
法性觀教 School of the contemplation of the true nature of Dharma. A system founded on the Hwa yen king.

XXIII.—EXOTERIC AND ESOTERIC SCHOOLS.

- 教師 Teachers of the Exoteric Buddhist doctrine.
律師 Teachers of the monastic and ascetic discipline or vinaya 律.
禪師 Teacher of Esoteric or meditative Buddhism. Dhyana contemplation.
初祖 The first patriarch Bodhidharma. Founder of the meditative school in China, 菩提達磨.

- 不立文字 Not to make use of written composition. The boast of Bodhidharma, the 20th Indian and 1st Chinese Patriarch.
直指人心 He pointed straight to man's heart (as the source of knowledge and reformation).
見性成佛 In perceiving what man's nature is, the state of Buddha is arrived at.
心印 The heart's seal. Symbol of Esoteric Buddhism. Also called 眞印, the true evidence (borne by the heart to Buddhist doctrine).
宗門 School of the patriarchs. Name of the Esoteric school in China.
教門 School of ordinary instructions. Name of the Exoteric school.
秘寶 Secret treasure. The Esoteric doctrine is so called.
臨濟 The most popular of the divisions of the Esoteric school. A school founded by a Chinese Buddhist named 義玄.

XIV.—TAUIST WORDS AND PHRASES.

By Rev. John Chalmers, M. A.

I.—PHRASES USED TO DEFINE 道.

- The Absolute, 無極.
 Emptiness, 虛無.
 Grand Emptiness, 太虛.
 Existence arising from Non-existence, 有生於無.
 The Beginning of Heaven and Earth, 天地之始.
 Real emptiness, embracing mysterious existence, 眞空而含妙有.
 The nameless simplicity, 無名之朴.
 It is always nameless; i. e. no words are adequate to express it, 道常無名.

II.—EXPRESSIONS ALMOST IDENTICAL WITH TAU.

- The spirit in the vally (that) dies not, 谷神不死.
 Hidden Mother, 玄牝.
 The mother of all things, 萬物之母.
 The Grand Primordial, 太極.
 One Breath (Being), 一氣.

- That which has no body or shape, 無形.
 The "former heaven," 先天.
 All visible things had a previous invisible existence which is technically denoted by "former heaven," opposed to the "latter heaven," i. e. the present visible state of existence, 後天.

III.—EXPRESSIONS USED TO DENOTE THE SEAT OF TAU IN THE HUMAN BODY.

- The Yellow Hall, 黃庭.
 The Yellow Way, 黃道.
 The Middle Palace, 中宮.
 The Middle Moor, 中野.
 The Earth Caldron, 土釜.
 The Earth Centre, 土中.
 The Gemmy Room, 玉房.
 The Square Inch, 方寸.
 The Spirit House, 神室.
 The Breath Cave, 氣穴.

The Root of Intelligence, 靈根.

The Crescent moon-furnace, 偃月爐.

The Passage of the hidden mother (or of the male and female), 玄牝之門.

IV.—THE RULING AND RE-UNITING PRINCIPLE IN MAN IS CALLED:

The Spirit in the Spleen, 脾中之神.

The Yellow go-between, 黃婆.

The Real Idea, 真意.

Real Faith, 真信.

Real Earth, 真土.

The word "Real" is applied by the Taoists to any thing which has been restored from a gross material nature to its original state of invisibility. The original state is contrasted with the state of unsatisfactory development in the following expressions:—

Former Heaven,—Latter heaven, 先天, 後天.

Original Spirit,—Knowing Spirit, 元神, 識神.

Heart of Tau,—Heart of Man, 道心, 人心.

There is an ambiguity in the use of these words "Heaven," "Spirit," "Heart," which must be borne in mind by the reader of Taoist books. The HEART of Tau, as shown above, is to be sought rather in the region of the Spleen, than in the viscous, usually called the heart, in the human body. The "original spirit" and the "knowing spirit" both belong to the heart, but the latter is opposed to Tau and needs to be controlled from the spleen. The word "life" is also used in two senses.

"To attain immortal life by mystic conception," 結聖胎得長生, is the supreme aim of the devotee. But in another sense he seeks to "get rid of life and death," 脫生死.

V.—DUALITY.

"All forms of DUALITY must be blended in Unity." 陰陽混合. (e. g.)

Heaven, Earth, 天地.

Motion, Rest, 動靜.

☰☷, 乾坤. } diagrams of the Yih King.

☯, 坎離. }

Hard, Soft, 剛柔.

Sun, Moon, 日月.

Male, Female, 男女.

Wood, Metal, 木金.

Fire, Water, 火水.

Spirit, Body, 神形.

Lǎw, Substance, 理氣.

Nature, Destiny, 性命.

Within the yang there is something of yin, 陽中有陰.

Within the yin there is something of yang, 陰中有陽.

The diagram K'ian is male and yet it represents the moon, 坎男爲月.

The diagram Li is female and yet it represents the sun, 離女爲日.

Lead is black outside (yin) and white inside (yang), 鉛外黑內白.

Mercury is white outside (yang) and dark inside (yin), 汞外明內暗.

"Lead and Mercury are the ingredients," 鉛汞爲藥物; from which there is most hope of "refining the pill," 煉丹.

In order to success it is necessary in imitation of nature, "to bring forward the yang fire," 進陽火; and then, "to restore the yin complement (of cold)," 運陰符.

One must therefore "know how to temper the fire," 知火候; "for this purpose all the remaining 60 diagrams of the Yih-king must be brought into use," 以餘六十卦爲火候.

Immortal medicine may be found in the sun and moon, 日月中有藥.

There is a golden crow in the sun, 日有金烏. There is a gemmy hare in the moon, 月有玉兔.

"First make a pot and chafing-dish of Kien and K'wan (Heaven and Earth), 先把乾坤爲鼎器.

Then compound medicine of the crow and hare, and go on boiling, 次搏烏兔藥來烹.

Till the two are driven together to the yellow way (the Ecliptic!), 既驅二物歸黃道.

And you are sure to get the Golden pill of immortality, 爭得金丹不解生.

"The flower of the moon," 月華; and "the essence of the sun," 日精, are the same as "real knowledge," 真知; and "intelligent knowledge," 靈知.

These two when united constitute "real intelligence," 真靈.

Figuratively they are "a male child" and "a female child," 嬰兒姤女, united by "the yellow go-between," 黃婆.

The result is always the same whether it be called "real intelligence," "golden flower," 金花; "yellow bud," 黃芽. "White Snow," 白雪. "A grain of pearl, 黍米珠; or "A particle of intelligent germination," &c., 一點靈苗.

VI.—TRINITY.

TAU gives rise to Unity, 道生一.
 Unity gives rise to Duality, 一生二.
 Duality gives rise to Trinity, 二生三.
 Trinity gives rise to All Things, 三生萬物.
 The Invisible, the Inaudible, and the Intangible, 夷希微; these three are blended in Unity, 三者混而爲一.

The Shade, the Light and the harmonious Breath, 陰陽和氣.

Heaven, Earth, and Man, 天地人.

The three Original principles, 三元.

Essence, Breath, Spirit, 精氣神.

The three kinds of Worth, 三寶.

Heavenly Worth, Intelligent Worth, Spiritual Worth, 天寶靈寶神寶.

The three highest Regions, 三界.

The Land of the Holy, the Land of the Real, the Land of the Immortal, 聖境真境仙境.

The three Pure Ones, 三清.

Gemmy Pure One, Supreme Pure, Grand Pure One, 玉清上清太清.

The three departments of a human being, 三家. Body, Heart, Mind (idea), 身心意.

The Three mystic pills, 三丹.

The restorative Pill, the golden Pill, the spiritual Pill, 還丹金丹神丹.

The three Fives, 三五.

Metal, and Water, 金水; Wood, and Fire, 木火; Earth in the middle, 土中.

The three yang Spirits, 三陽神.

The original Spirit, 元神; The knowing Spirit, 識神; The real Spirit, 真神.

The three familiar Spirits, or the three Pang, 三尸神即三彭, 彭倨彭質彭矯.

(These are yin spirits who) record men's faults, and on every kêng shên (metal) day, when men sleep, inform Shangti, 記入過失庚申日乘人睡告之上帝.

The three Fairy Islands, 三神山, 蓬萊方丈瀛洲.

VII.—FOURS.

The FOUR FORMS, 四象.

☰☷☲☵, 乾坤離坎.

Heaven, Earth, Sun, Moon, 天地日月.

The Four Directions, 四方.

East, West, South, North, 東西南北.

Four (corresponding) Elements, 四行.

Wood, Metal, Fire, Water, 木金火水.

The four Seasons, 四時.

Spring, Summer, Autumn, Winter, 春夏秋冬. (The influences of the seasons) Generation, Destruction, Nourishing, Storing up, 生殺養藏.

(Positions relative to man) Left, Right, Before, Behind, 左右前後.

The four symbolic Animals, 四獸.

Green Dragon, White Tiger, Red Snake, Black Tortoise, 青龍白虎赤蛇烏龜.

These names are frequently used for the elements to which they correspond.

VIII.—FIVES.

Each of the FIVE ELEMENTS has two numbers corresponding to it as well as two of each of the sets of cyclical characters. Odd numbers are yang and even numbers yin.

The numbers, arranged according to the position of groups of spots on the back of Fuhhi's "dragon-horse," which came out of the River Mang, stand as follows:—

	2
	Fire
	5
8, 3 Wood	10, 4, 9, Metal.
	EARTH
	1
	6
	Water.
	七 二
	火 五
八 三 木	十 四 九 金
	土 一 六
	水

This which is called the "River Plan," 河圖, represents the natural movement of the five elements and corresponds to the Taoist principle of spontaneity and nonaction, 五行順行自然無爲之道也. Thus:—

EARTH generates Metal, 土生金.

Metal generates Water, 金生水.

Water generates Wood, 水生木.

Wood generates Fire, 木生火.

Fire generates EARTH, &c, 火生土.

"A Spiritual tortoise," however, came out of the River Lok in the time of the Great Yu with groups of marks on its back, indicating an entirely different arrangement:—

4 Metal 9 2 四金九二.

Fire 火

3 5 7 三 五七.

Wood EARTH 木 土

8 1 Water 6 八 一水六.

This which is the "Lok Book," 洛書, represents the backward movement of the five elements, 五行逆運有爲; and corresponds to the "Tauist principle of taking action and transforming," 變化之道也; for "the superior virtue does not act, 上德無爲; but the inferior does act," (i. e. it is under the necessity of refining the golden pill.) 下德

EARTH destroys Water, 土剋水. [爲之.

Water destroys Fire, 水剋火.

Fire destroys Metal, 火剋金.

Metal destroys Wood, 金剋木.

Wood destroys EARTH, 木剋土.

Fuh-hi made the 8 diagrams of the "former heaven":—伏羲畫先天八卦.

The Heavens		兌	乾	巽
Fire		☱	☰	☴
The Sun	EARTH	The Moon	離	☲
Wood		Metal	☲	☰
The EARTH		震	坤	艮
Water		☳	☷	☶

So that the diagrams corresponding to Heaven and Earth were straight above and below.

King Wan, however made the 8 diagrams of the "latter heaven," 文王畫後天八卦:—

—	The Sun	The Earth	巽	離	坤
—	—	—	☴	☲	☷
—	—	—	震	兌	☰
—	—	—	☳	☱	☰
—	The Moon	The Heavens	艮	坎	乾
—	—	—	☶	☵	☰

The confusion is great, 乾坤顛倒.

The Breath of the "former heaven" has been injured, 先天之炁已傷.

The yang has been subdued by the yin, 陽爲陰陷.

Man who "is also a microcosm," is naturally in a similar state of disorder, 人亦具一天地.

The five Elements and the cyclical characters are connected as follows:—

Midnight.	Water	} North, Winter,	亥水	} 北冬
	Water		子水
	EARTH		丑土

Morning.	Wood	} East, Spring,	寅木	} 東春
	Wood		卯木
	EARTH		辰土

Midday.	Fire	} South, Summer,	巳火	} 南夏
	Fire		午火
	EARTH		未土

Evening.	Metal	} West, Autumn,	申金	} 西秋
	Metal		酉金
	EARTH		戌土

Wood 3, 8 甲乙木, 三, 八.

Fire 7, 2 丙丁火, 七, 二.

EARTH 5, 10 戊己土, 五, 十.

Metal 9, 4 庚辛金, 九, 四.

Water 1, 6 壬癸水, 一, 六.

EARTH prevails in all the four seasons, 土旺於四季.

EARTH stays in the middle, 土居中.

At the commencement of human existence the five elements are all yang, 先天五行屬陽. (The 1st word, 2d word, and 3d word, in each of the following phrases of five words, are closely connected with the corresponding words in the others).

3 9 7 1 5, 三九七一五.

Wood, Metal, Fire, Water, EARTH, } 甲庚丙壬戊
} 木金火水土.

The five colours, 五色.

Green, White, Red, Black, YELLOW, 青白赤黑

The five Tastes, 五味. [黃.

Sour, Acid, Bitter, Salt, SWEET, 辛酸苦鹹甘.

The five Senses, 五官.

Sight, Smell, Taste, Hearing, FEELING, 眼鼻舌耳意.

The five Viscera, 五臟.

Liver, Lungs, Heart, Kidneys, SPLEEN, 肝肺心腎脾.

The five Original (principles), 五元.

Nature, Emotions, Spirit, Essence, BREATH, 性情神精氣.

The five Virtues, 五德.

Love, Righteousness, Propriety, Wisdom, FAITH, 仁義禮智信.

In the developed state of man the yin elements get the ascendant, 後天五行屬陰.

8 4 2 6 10, 八四二六.

Wood, Metal, Fire, Water, EARTH, } 乙辛丁癸己
} 木金火水土.

Then instead of the Five Virtues there appear—

"The Five Creatures," 五物.

A Wondering Soul, 游魂; A Ghastly shade, 鬼 魄; A Knowing Spirit, 識神; A Gross Essence, 濁精; An Unruly Mind, 妄意.

And the "five Robbers," 五賊; namely,
Joy, Anger, Pleasure, Grief, Lust, 喜怒哀樂慾.
He who has once come under the power of these must "Collect and blend the five elements, 攢簇五行; or "get back the simple Breath of real Unity of the former state," 還先天 真一之氣.

How this is to be done, "it would be hard to write, 難以書傳; though it might be communicated by the living voice," 可以口訣.
The superior virtue of Lau-tsz (might be easier), 老子上德.

To do the not-doing, 爲無爲.

To be busy with no business, 事無事.

To relish what has no relish, 味無味.

Desire the absence of desire, 欲不欲.

Learn unlearnedness, 學不學.

Be compassionate, Economical, Humble, and Retiring, 慈儉謙退.

Not stay where one has achieved merit, 功成
不處.

Wear coarse garments and hide the jewel in the bosom, 被褐懷玉.

Going up to the genii, 上僊.

Wei Peh-yang following the Gold and Jade Classic, 魏伯陽祖金碧經 (by some previous authors) composed the Union of Three Together, 作參同契.

From this began the talk about the dragon and tiger, the lead and mercury, the pot and chafing dish, refining of medicine, &c., 始 有龍虎鉛汞鼎爐煉藥云云. (This was in the late Han dynasty. Wei peh-yang made much use of the Yih-king.)

IX.—PRACTICES CONDEMNED AS HERETICAL, 傍門外道.

Rolling the eye-balls, 運雙睛.

Rubbing the belly, 摩臍輪.

Holding in the breath, 閉息行氣.

Extending and contracting the limbs, 屈伸導 many other things, some of which are not fit to be mentioned).

X.—SUCCESS.

Within historic time more than 100,000 persons have attained to the state of immortal genii, 從古至今成仙者十萬餘人.

Many have attained to the highest degree of perfection rendering the body and spirit both alike miraculous, and perfectly united with Tau, 形神俱妙於道合真.

Hwang-ti rode up to heaven on a dragon, 黃帝
乘龍上昇.

Others have ridden up on storks, on clouds, or on the wind, some going straight up in the air, 或跨鶴或駕雲或御風或冲舉.

Eight hundred have taken their households with them, and three thousand have gone up flying, 拔宅八百飛昇三千.

(Those who have come short of the highest at-

奪舍.

XI.—TITLES OF DEITIES.

Celestial Excellency, 天尊. This title is given to all the three Pure Ones.

The Celestial Excellency, the Beginning Gemmy
Pure One (Pwanku or Chaos), 玉清元始天 尊盤古混沌氏.

The Grand Supreme Prince Lau, 太上老君, is the usual title of Lantz; but he is also called :—

His Celestial Excellency of Reason and Virtue,
Grand Pure One, 太清道德天尊.

It is difficult to say with what person the Supreme Pure One is to be identified. He is said to have succeeded the Beginning King of Emptiness, 接元始虛皇之統系; and is usually called His Celestial Excellency, Gemmy Dawn, Intelligent Worth Supreme Pure One, 上清玉晨靈寶天尊.

These three are called "Gods of emptiness," 虛無上帝; or of mysterious non-existence, 妙無上帝.

"Yuh-Hwang" 玉皇; was raised to his present position in the Sung dynasty. He gets all the titles of the Three Pure Ones. But he is a God of mysterious existence, 妙有上帝. The Real Tortoise, Dark Heaven God of the North Pole, 北極真武玄天上帝. His deity is more honoured than any of the preceding in Canton. This present high position dates from the Ming dynasty. There have been and are many more:—

Celestial gods, 天帝.

The thirty six Celestial gods, 三十六天帝; or

The thirty six Yuk Hwang, 三十六玉皇.

The thirty two Celestial gods, 三十二天帝.

All the Celestial gods, 諸天上帝.

Real Princes, 真君.

Great gods, 大帝.

God-princes, 帝君.

Men of Tau, 道人.

Real Men, 真人.

These are titles freely applied to all sorts of real or imaginary beings in heaven, earth or air in the Dark Capital, 玄都; or in the Gemmy Metropolis, 玉京.

There are Gemmy boys, 玉童; and Gemmy maids, 玉女.

XII.—PRIESTLY ORDERS.

The highest earthly dignity among the Tauists is "Master of Heaven," 天師.

This has been hereditary in the family of Chang for more than a thousand years. They trace their descent from "Chang Tau-ling," 張道陵, a charlatan who flourished in the first century of our era.

A superior of a temple, 道長.

Temple or Monastery, 道觀.

Priests, 道士.

Spoken of in history as Magicians, 方士.

Feathered gentlemen (probably from their sometimes flying), 羽士.

Yellow caps, 黃冠; because they wear the style of caps instituted by Hwangti.

The above worthies, and others, are said to have handed down from one to another the secret of immortality, or some other secrets which they would only tell to an elect few. Lau-tsz, Chwang-tsz, and Lich-tsz can hardly be held responsible for any of the systematic nonsense represented in the foregoing pages. Chwang and Lich indeed abound in fables and myths of the most extravagant and incredible nature, but it seems obvious that they neither believed them themselves nor intended their readers to believe them. Chinese alchemy may be much older than Taoism; but it was not till the Han dynasty that the Taoism of Lau-tsz and alchemy became confounded together. The Emperor Wu of Han believed in both. In the year 133 B. C. history tells us, Li Shaukiun (李少君), a magician, said to him, "If you sacrifice to the Furnace, the necessary ingredients will be obtained, cinnabar may be turned into yellow gold, you may get a sight of fairy-land, and then after performing the rites on hill and plain, you will not die." All this the Emperor implicitly believed and acted on; but after 50 years of faith and labour he made the sad confession that it was all vanity. Successive failures like this drove the Taoists, not to a wise abandonment of the subject, but to allegorizing, mystification, and falsehood without end.

Much of their phraseology has become current in Chinese literature; and they have borrowed largely from the Buddhists, and from the Yih-king, a book which the Confucianists could better spare than the Taoists, if the great Sage had not had a hand in it.

For a full view of Taoist speculation, the student is referred to a modern publication entitled 道書七種, and for mythology and history to 神仙通鑑.

XVI.—AN ETHNOGRAPHICAL TABLE OF CENTRAL ASIA.

Up to A. D. 1000 according to Chinese Historians. Translated from Klaproth's Tableaux historiques de l'Asie, Map 12 with the Chinese Characters added. By Geo. Phillips, Esq.

I.—TUNGUSIC NATIONS.

The most ancient denomination given by the Chinese to the Tungusic race is that of 肅慎, which term corresponds with that of TCHOURTCHOUK among the UIGURS, DJOURDJOUT among the Mohammedan writers, and DZARTCHIT among the Mongols of our day.

肅慎 This country situated to the N. E. of 夫餘 and to the North of the mountain 不咸, was known to the Chinese at the time of 武王 in the 17th century before our era. Its people resembled in appearance those of 夫餘, but their language was different.

挹婁 The name given to 肅慎 since the 1st century of our era.

勿吉 They were the most powerful of the eastern barbarians; their language differed slightly from that of the others. In their country was the great river 粟末 three li wide, which is the upper Soung-gari-oula of our day. The 勿吉 are the same people who were later called 靺鞨. About the year 470 A. D. there were in their neighbourhood the following hordes: 大莫盧, 靺鞨, 莫多回, 庫婁, 素和, 具弗伏, 匹黎, 拔大何, 都羽陵, 庫伏真, 魯婁, 羽真侯.

靺鞨 The name given to the 勿吉 since the 7th century. They were divided into the seven following hordes:—

1.—粟末 This people took their name from the above mentioned river. They inhabited the Northern portion of the Corea, and their army consisted of several thousand troops.

2.—伯咄 To the North of the 粟末 had seven thousand fighting men.

3.—安車骨 Lay to the N. W. of the 伯咄.

4.—拂涅 Lay to the E. of 伯咄.

5.—號室 Lay to the E. of 拂涅.

6.—黑水 Or black river (Amoor). Lay to the N. W. of the 安車骨.

7.—白山 The white mountain horde lay to the S. E. of the 粟末 and to the North of the Corea.

室韋 The name given by the Chinese in the middle of the fifth century to the Tungusic tribes, which were found to the North of the 靺鞨. The 室韋 were the same race as the 契丹 and spoke the same language as the 靺鞨; they were divided into five tribes.

地豆于 Lay a thousand li to the W. of the 室韋 (265 A. D.).

烏洛侯 Lay to the North of 室韋 at the commencement of the seventh century.

渤海 This was the name given to the 靺鞨, settled on the river 粟末 and tributary to the 高麗 or Coreans. They originally numbered a million of families. They conquered and brought under their rule the 夫餘, 沃沮, 弁韓, 朝鮮; that is to say the greater part of the Corea, and founded at the commencement of the 8th century a powerful kingdom, which in 925 was destroyed by the 契丹.

契丹 The same people as the 室韋, but they were settled further southward to the N. of 遼東. Their manners resembled those of the 靺鞨. At the time of the Han, they were defeated by the 匈奴, and compelled to retreat into the mountains of 鮮卑. In the fifth century they were tributary to the 室韋 and with time they became stronger and formed in 907 A. D. a powerful Empire, which, under the name of KARAKITAI lasted till 1125 A. D.

女真, 女直 These are the ancient 肅慎. They inhabited the country to the E. of the river 混同江 or SOUNGGARI at the foot of the mountain 長白山 in the N. of the Corea at the sources of the 鴨綠江. They had the 室韋 on the N. and they were bounded by the 渤海 on the W. (eighth century).

The family name of their Princes was 王姓拿氏. They belonged originally to the black river 黑水靺鞨 tribe. In 1170 the following herdes were living in their neighbourhood: 欽勒, 噴訥, 玩突, 怕忽, 安里沒.

II.—SIAN PI NATIONS.

The Eastern branch, 鮮卑.

東胡山戎 This is the name by which the Chinese denoted about 1000 years B. C. the people of the western 鮮卑 race. These barbarians of the mountains are the ancestors of the 鮮卑 and the 烏桓 are their descendants. They lived at the time of the 周朝. Dynasty to the North of the kingdom of 燕 or the province of 北直隸 of our day, in the mountains of eastern Mongolia.

烏桓 In 209 B. C. 匈奴 冒頓 scattered the 東胡山戎, who divided themselves into two bands, one of which took refuge in the mountains called 烏桓, which is the country now occupied by the Mongol tribe of AROV-KORTSIN.

鮮卑 This is the other band of the 東胡, scattered by 冒頓 who settled in the mountain of 鮮卑, whence it derives its names. This mountain of 鮮卑 whence it derives its names. This mountain is situated one hundred li to the southward of the right banner of the KARATSIN tribe, to the North of the LOKHAN river. The 鮮卑 commingled with the 烏桓 and their language, manners, and customs were identical.

軻比能 A petty tribe of the 鮮卑. It took its name from its chief who was killed 235 A. D.

乞伏 A branch of the 鮮卑, settled in the country of 隴西 in 陝西 about 360 A. D. It was composed of three tribes, 如弗斯, 出連 and 叱盧.

秃髮 or 烏孤. Hordes of the 鮮卑, settled to the West of the yellow river or in TANGOUT at the commencement of the second century. They were of the same race as the ancestors of the 魏.

宇文 The 鮮卑, who settled on the North of 遼東 and 夫餘. They shaved their heads and left only a small tuft of hair on the top which, they looked upon as an ornament. It appears that they were mixed with the 匈奴 they spoke also a different dialect from the others 鮮卑 (second half of the third century).

慕容氏 Descendants of the 東胡, allied also to the 鮮卑. In 280 A. D. they founded the kingdom of 燕 in 遼東.

托跋氏 Descendants of the 東胡, whose origin is lost in the dim recesses of antiquity. They formerly lived in the country of the KALKAS of our day, from whence they migrated towards the middle of the third century to the Northern frontier of China. It is from this people that the 魏 Dynasty is descended, which reigned in China in the fifth and sixth centuries.

吐谷渾 A branch of the 鮮卑 of 遼東. It takes its name from its chief, who towards 300 A. D. withdrew with seven thousand families of his compatriots and migrated to the mountain 陰山. From thence this tribe migrated into the country of 燉煌, where they became very powerful. Other tribes belonging to the 吐谷渾 were 乙弗 敝 which tribe in the second half of the fifth century lay to the North of the 吐谷渾. In their country was a lake of one thousand li in circumference, this is probably Lake Lop.

契翰 Was situated to the West of the above named tribe.

可蘭 Lay to the North West of the mountain 白蘭. They were the ugliest of all the barbarians known to the Chinese.

庫莫奚 Descendants from the Eastern branch of the 鮮卑 of 宇文. They inhabited the ancient country of the 鮮卑. Towards the end of the fifth century they were called 庫莫奚, but at the commencement of the seventh century they retook their ancient name of 奚. Their five tribes were 摩訶主, 莫賀弟, 契箇, 木崑, 室得理.

蠕蠕 Descendants of the 托跋, who originally dwelt with them in the country of KALKA on the frontier of Siberia. At the end of the fourth century they subdued the 高車突厥 and became very powerful.

III.—THE COREAN BRANCH OF THE SIAN PI.

朝鮮 The ancient name of the Corea at the time of 周武王 (1123 B. C.).

濊貊 This people lived upon the Eastern borders of the Corea to the North of the 辰韓 and East of the 馬韓. They spoke the same language as the 高麗 and were of the same origin, and same manners and laws (200 B. C.).

馬韓 This people formerly occupied a great part of the western Corea, and were divided into fifty-five tribes, whose names are given below. The large tribes were composed of ten thousand families, and the small ones of a thousand. The whole nation consisted of ten million families (200 B. C.): 愛, 桑外, 襄, 牟水, 小石索, 大石索, 優休, 弁添, 臣漬沽, 伯齊, 連盧, 不斯, 日華, 古誕者, 古離, 怒藍, 月支, 治離, 弁盧, 素謂乾, 古爰, 莫盧, 卑離, 占離, 卑, 占鑾, 支侵, 狗盧, 卑彌, 監奚, 卑離, 古蒲, 致利, 鞠, 再路, 兒林, 駟盧, 內卑離, 威奚, 萬盧, 辟卑離, 舊斯, 烏旦, 一離, 不彌, 友午, 狗素, 樓盧, 牟盧, 卑離, 臣蘇塗, 莫盧, 古臘, 臨素, 臣雲新, 如來, 卑離, 楚山塗, 卑離, 一難, 狗奚, 不雲, 不斯, 漬邪, 爰池, 乾馬, 楚離.

辰韓 They were divided into twelve tribes. They occupied the S. E. of the Corea. According to an ancient tradition, they were descended from a part of the inhabitants of the kingdom of 秦 who were driven out of the country after the fall of the dynasty of 秦始皇帝. On their arrival in the Corea, they got mixed with the 馬韓, and they received there the name of 秦韓, which later was changed into that of 辰韓. It is in their country that the kingdom of 新羅 or 新盧 was founded 57 B. C. Their language differs a little from that of the other Han tribes. They had very flat heads and resembled the Japanese (200 B. C.).

弁韓 They were divided into twelve tribes. They occupied the south western part of the Corea, where they lived together with the 辰韓 and had the same manners, customs and dialect as they. They were all tall men and had beautiful heads of hair. It is in their country that was formed the kingdom of 百濟 (200 B. C.).

夫餘 A Corean people, who dwelt upon both banks of the upper 鴨綠江 in the eastern part of Liau-tung upon the upper SOUNG-GARIA-OLA which is called GHIRIN, and at the sources of the TOUMENOULA.

The kings of 高句麗 and of 百濟 were descended from the kings of this country (200 B. C.).

高句麗 They were five tribes, who occupied the N. W. of the Corea and the southern part was bounded by the yellow sea (200 B. C.). Their names are 消奴 the western tribe, which was the royal tribe, 絕奴 northern principality or further tribe, 順奴, the eastern tribe, 濫奴 the rain tribe, and 桂婁 the yellow tribe.

豆莫婁 This people are of the same race as the 夫餘. They dwell in the country now occupied by the Manchow 1,000 li to the North of 勿吉 and to the East of 室婁 as far as the sea. They spread over about 2,000 li of country full of waste marshes and mountains (200 B. C.).

沃沮 This people were composed of five hundred thousand families. They dwelt in the North East part of the Corea to the N. of 濊貊. They were governed by small chieftains; their language was that of the Coreans (200 B. C.).

定安 They are the part of the 馬韓 conquered by the 契丹 and removed by them to their western frontier, in the present Mongolia, where the 定安 were to be found in 970 A. D.

IV.—TURKISH NATIONS.

The ancient general denomination by which the Chinese Historians designated the nomadic tribes of the Turkish race, who occupied the southern part of the present Mongolia, situated to the North of China, was that of 狄. The character which expresses this word is composed of dog and fire, to shew, says an ancient lexicographer that these barbarians are descended from dogs. But this word 狄 means also a big stag. I should be inclined to believe that in ancient times that this people made use of reindeer like their oriental neighbours, and it is for this reason that they have received the name of 狄. Later there was added to their name the word 北, which signifies North, and they call them 北狄, or the Northern ti; but under this denomination are also included the people of the 鮮卑, and those of Tungusic origin, a circumstance, which renders it extremely vague. The name of the people, truly Turks, mentioned by the Chinese, are the following.

山戎 or Barbarians of the mountains. This name was applied in the early days of the Chinese monarchy or more than two thousand two hundred years before our era, to the tribes which inhabited the mountainous country situated to the N. of the Chinese provinces of 北直隸 and 山西.

獯鬻 or 種鬻. The name of the same people under the 夏 dynasty 2000 B. C.

獯狁. Under the 周 dynasty 1100 B. C.

白狄赤狄. 1100 B. C.

林胡戎 or 樓煩戎. To the North of the kingdom of 秦 1000 B. C.

匈奴. The name generally given to the Turkish tribes since 600 B. C.

高車 or High Chariots. A Turkish nation to the N. of the desert of GOBI, around the upper part of the ORKHON, SELENGGA and TOULA rivers. Their dialect differed a little from that of the 匈奴, although they were descended from this people. They began to become powerful about the third century.

- 獅國 Kingdom of Lions, the ancient name of 塔什干. A town of western Tartary or Turkestan. Latitude, 43° 03, Longitude, 66° 25.
- 大秦 Name of a western country presumed to be the Roman Empire; by some said to be Persia.
- 大夏 An ancient name of Bactriana.
- 大理 Ancient name of the kingdom of Annan.
- 大食 The general name given to the Arabs. Among the Persians the Arabs are called Tazi; and among the Armenians all Mohammedan nations are known under the name of Dadjik or Tadjik, a name which appears first to have been given by the Armenians to the country of HEDJAZ where Mahomet was born. It appears probable that the words Tazi, Dadjih, and Tadjih have the same origin as the Syriac word Tayoye, which primarily meant Arabs, and then by extension, it was made to apply to barbarians, foreigners, &c., according to circumstances. It is undoubtedly from Tazi or Tadjih that the Chinese have their Tashih. [Memoires concernant les Chinois Vol. xvi, p. 574.]

XIX.—COUNTRIES AND PLACES ADJACENT TO CHINA ON THE SOUTH AND IN THE INDIAN OCEAN.

By Goe. Phillips, Esq.

I.—KINGDOMS IN SUMATRA MENTIONED IN CHINESE BOOKS.

- Acheen 亞齊.
- Samara 蘇門答刺國. This kingdom is mentioned by Marco Polo and Ibn Batutah.
- Lambri 南浮里國 (pronounced Lan poli in Fookien). A kingdom on the N. E. of the island of Sumatra, which the 廿一史, identifies with the kingdom of 渤尼. The sea stretching from Acheen Head to Ceylon is called by the Chinese the sea of Lambri.
- An island called 帽山, is the island last seen before reaching the Nicobars, 翠藍山. This Mao-shan is probably the Gavenispola of Marco Polo, called Pullo Gomus by Hamilton and other writers.

- Aru 啞魯國.
- Nakourh 那孤兒國. A kingdom adjoining Samara.
- Letai 黎代國. A kingdom to the East of Lambri.
- Palembang and Jambi 舊港國. In this neighbourhood was situated the famous port of 三佛齊, once the great emporium of the trade between Arabia, India and China.

II.—SIAMESE AND NATIVE MALAY STATES ON THE EAST AND WEST SIDES OF THE MALAY PENINSULA.

- Siam 暹羅.
- Chiya 斜仔.

Ligor, called by the Siamese Lakon, 六坤. This is probably the Lachae of Marco Polo.

Sungora 宋卡.

Patani 大啤.

Kalantan 吉連丹.

Tunggano 丁噶奴.

Pahang 彭亨.

Johore 柔佛.

Singapore 息力, 新嘉坡.

Salangore 沙刺我.

Kedah 吉德.

Malacca 麻刺甲. The southern part of the Malay Peninsula traded with China in the first century of our era and was known under the name of 哥羅富沙.

III.—ISLANDS AND COUNTRIES BEYOND ACHEEN IN SUMATRA FORMERLY RESORTED TO BY CHINESE SHIPS.

翠藍嶼 Nicobars, the largest of these islands was known under the name of 梭馬蠻, Sambelong.

錫蘭國, 裸形國 Ceylon, seven days sail westward from the Nicobars. The first point sighted was 鶯歌嘴山; two or three days from this a place called the 佛堂山 was reached, and then the port of 別羅里, Pooliantive (?), the island on which Batecalo is situated.

溜山國 The Maldives. These islands are described as being 10 days sail S. W. from Sumatra and 7 days and nights sail S. of Ceylon.

小葛蘭 Quilon, a port adjacent to Cochin, described as a great emporium of western commerce. Pauthier states 俱蘭 to be the Chinese name for Quilon.

柯枝 Cochin.

阿丹 Aden.

古里 Calicut.

榜葛刺 Bengala.

忽魯謨斯 Ormus.

浙地港 Chitugong.

IV.—A FEW NAMES MENTIONED IN MARCO POLO'S TRAVELS.

Hormus 忽魯謨斯.

Naskat 麻實吉.

Culatu Kalhat 古里牙.

Dufar 佐法兒.

Esher 刺撒.

Aden 阿丹.

Magadoxo 木骨都.

Socotra 須多大 (foreign name) 連古答刺.

Kismaoran 客實木克郎.

Combaet 坎八葉城.

Tana (?) 刁元.

Gozurat 雜葛得.

Comari 甘巴里頭.

Coilun 小葛蘭.

Cail 加異城.

The above list of names is taken from the rude maps to be found in the 武備秘書 many of which appear to have been drawn in the Sung dynasty. Descriptions of most of these countries are to be found in the 星槎勝覽; and had this book been in existence in Marco Polo's day, I should almost venture to say that the great traveller had translated from it. I incline to the opinion that the descriptions of all the countries from Loehae Ligor (in Malay Lakon), 六坤 to Hormus, are translated from some Chinese geographical work in existence in his day.

I do not think that Madagascar was known to the Chinese. The maps in the work from which I have taken these names do not extend further south than Melinda, 麻林地, and Magadoxo.

I think what Colonel Yule says about Marco Polo's account of Madagascar being confused with that of Magadoxo is quite correct.

M. Pauthier uses the characters, 俱蘭, to represent Coilun. I think he must be in error, as the characters I use stand for a kingdom between Cail and Cochin, and all geographies I have read, state Sino-kolan to be in the neighbourhood of Cochin. The 海國圖誌 gives 俱蘭 as the characters used to represent Abyssinia.

V.—COUNTRIES MENTIONED IN THE SIN TANG SHOO.

To be met with in a chapter describing the route from Kwang-chow-foo (Canton) to Hormus, and countries situated on the Persian Gulf and the Euphrates.

辛酉 1861, 1921, 壬戌 1862, 1922, 癸亥 1863, 1923.

II.—Horary Characters Employed by the Chinese.

The Chinese divide the 24 hours into periods or watches of 12 hours each, and these watches, being subdivided, further correspond with the Solar hour. Instead of 正子, 子正 is sometimes used for midnight. Instead of 正丑, 丑正 is also used for 2 A. M. &c. Instead of 交子, 子初 is also used for 11 P. M. Instead of 交丑, 丑初 is also used for 1 M. P. &c. The following is the list of terms employed.

Midnight,	正子;	1 a. m.	交丑.
2 a. m.	正丑;	3 a. m.	交寅.
4 a. m.	正寅;	5 a. m.	交卯.
6 a. m.	正卯;	7 a. m.	交辰.
8 a. m.	正辰;	9 a. m.	交巳.
10 a. m.	正巳;	11 a. m.	交午.
12 p. m.	正午;	1 p. m.	交未.
2 p. m.	正未;	3 p. m.	交申.
4 p. m.	正申;	5 p. m.	交酉.
6 p. m.	正酉;	7 p. m.	交戌.
8 p. m.	正戌;	9 p. m.	交亥.
10 p. m.	正亥;	11 p. m.	交子.

III.—The Twenty Four Solar Terms, 二十四節氣.

The Chinese year, besides being divided into 12 Calendar months, rectified periodically by an intercalary month called 閏月, is further divided into 24 terms which respectively correspond to the period during which the sun passes through one of the zodiacal signs. These periods, with the date of their incidence, are as follows:—

Feb. 5.	立春, Spring begins; Sun in Aquarius.
Feb. 19.	雨水, Rain and Water; } in Pisces.
Mh. 5.	驚蟄, Excited insects; }
Mh. 20.	春分, Vernal Equinox; } in Aries.
Ap. 5.	清明, Clear bright; }
Ap. 20.	穀雨, Grain rain; }
May 5.	立夏, Summer begins; }
May 21.	小滿, Grain filling; }
June 6.	芒種, Grain in ear; }
June 21.	夏至, Summer Solstice; }
July 7.	小暑, Little heat; }
July 23.	大暑, Great heat; }
Aug. 7.	立秋, Autumn begins; }
Aug. 23.	處暑, Limit of heat; }
Sep. 8.	白露, White dew; }

Sep. 23.	秋分, Autumnal Equinox; }	in Libra.
Oct. 8.	寒露, Cold dew; }
Oct. 23.	霜降, Frost descending; }	in Scorpio.
Nov. 7.	立冬, Winter begins; }
No. 22.	小雪, Little snow; }	in Sagittarius.
Dec. 7.	大雪, Great snow; }
De. 22.	冬至, Winter Solstice; }	in Capricorn.
Jan. 6.	小寒, Little cold; }
Ja. 21.	大寒, Great cold; sun enters Aquarius.

The three months of each quarter of the year are further distinguished by the characters 孟 mêng, 仲 chung, 季 chi, denoting their order of precedence. Thus 仲夏 chung hsia is the second month of Summer quarter, or the fifth month of the year.

VIII.—Concordance of Astronomical Terms employed in designating years with reference to the Cyclical Periods.

The following terms are employed by the Chinese for designating years, in conformity with a system first introduced on the reform of Calendar in the year B.C. 140. The origin of these terms as also their actual meaning is involved in obscurity; but as they are, nevertheless, frequently employed in indicating dates, the following table will probably be found useful.

THE TWELVE BRANCHES. 十二支 also called sui yang , 歲陽	CORRESPONDING TERMS. N.B. —Those in the second column are the forms given in Sze-ma tsien's History .		THE TEN STEMS. 十干 also called sui yin , 歲陰	CORRESPONDING TERMS.

FIRST TRANSLATION. Over this land of peace and rest, trouble rises like the tide; and the year sixteen demands that we prepare on every side. Now await the coming years of Lungshay and stalking Ma, when five nations will convulse our flowery land Chung hua.

SECOND TRANSLATION. On the peaceful surface of the deep, a flower is about immediately to spring forth. While yet in the enjoyment of peace, prepare against the period of the Two Rights added together. Next wait until the Dragon and the Serpent drive out the Horse; for then all foreign nations will greatly disturb the Central Flowery land.

VIII.—CHINESE RULES FOR SERVANTS.

When servants see a visitor come (to their master's house), they should speak to him in a low voice, and answer him mildly,—being careful to have a good natured countenance, 家人見客至低聲, 緩答小心婉容.

When they see a gentleman passing the door of the house, they should all rise and stand upright, 門前見客過, 皆起身直立.

When they meet a gentleman in the street, they should stand on one side and yield the pathway to him, 遇諸途皆側立讓行.

When sent to a gentleman's house to make enquiries, they should always speak slowly, and in a low and mild tone of voice, 如至其家問話, 皆低聲緩答.

Though these are trifling matters, yet the sincerity and generosity or otherwise of the master, as well as the disposition of the servants to make disturbance, or the contrary, are to be known thereby, 此雖小事主人之忠厚不忠厚, 家人之生事不生事, 俱因此而可知也.

IX.—MERITORIOUS DEEDS OF MANDARINS.

To persecute locusts with zeal, 捕蝗盡力.

When a bad harvest occurs, to adopt measures to boil congee and give it to the poor, 遇小歉設法, 煮粥賑濟.
